

EN 388 PROTECTIVE GLOVES AGAINST MECHANICAL RISKS TEST METHODS AND REQUIREMENTS

General requirements	EN 420
Glove measurement and dimensions	EN 420 part 6.1
Pretreatment: Washing and drying	EN ISO 15797 (industrial) or EN ISO 6330 (domestic) if the gloves can be cleaned
Abrasion resistance for multilayered gloves the test is carried out on all layers	EN 388 part 6.1 in new state and if the gloves can be cleaned then after pretreatments
Cut resistance for multilayered gloves the test is carried out simultaneously on all layers	EN 388 part 6.2 in new state and if the gloves can be cleaned then after pretreatments
Tear force of trouser-shaped test specimens for multilayered gloves the test is carried out on all layers	EN 388 part 6.3 in new state and if the gloves can be cleaned then after pretreatments
Puncture resistance for multilayered gloves the test is carried out simultaneously on all layers	EN 388 part 6.4 in new state and if the gloves can be cleaned then after pretreatments